1. A method for determining the relative concentration of a target nucleic acid in a sample, comprising: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> obtaining a first sample of the target nucleic acid; obtaining a second sample of the target nucleic acid; amplifying the first sample of the target nucleic acid to produce a first amplified product; amplifying the second sample of the target nucleic acid to produce a second amplified product; measuring the relative concentration of the first amplified product and the second amplified product; determining the relative concentration of the target nucleic acid in the sample based on the measured relative concentration of the first amplified product and the second amplified product.
